Cayuga Health Names Herb Alexander as Chief Diversity Officer

Newly formed position and diversity programs, focus on maintaining a culture that advances diversity, equity, and inclusion throughout Cayuga Health System

July 27, 2021, Ithaca, New York – Cayuga Health has named Herb Alexander as Chief Diversity Officer, a newly created position, to enhance diversity programs to create a more inclusive culture for their health care organization that reflects the communities which they serve.

Alexander most recently was Chief Diversity Officer and Associate Dean of Students for Roberts Wesleyan College in Rochester, New York. He holds a Master of Science in Strategic (Business) Leadership and a Bachelor of Arts in History from Roberts Wesleyan College. He will start on August 3.

“We believe Herb Alexander is the perfect person to help lead Cayuga Health’s diversity, equity and inclusion initiatives forward. He is highly qualified and eager to dive right in to lead this critical strategic initiative,” adds Stallone. “He will report directly to me and I look forward to working with him closely to ensure that Cayuga Health becomes a leader in supporting diversity, which will benefit organization, patients, and community. His work will touch every part of our organization from hiring to community outreach.”

Cayuga Health System accelerates vaccine access in the community

An essential component of successful and proactive COVID-19 management is facilitating community vaccination and bringing immunity to clustered populations. To accelerate vaccine uptake, Cayuga Health System developed a COVID-19 vaccination partnership with the Tompkins County Health Department during which the health system administered more than 50,000 vaccine doses in four months.

In early January, Cayuga Health and the Tompkins County Health Department opened a 50,000-square-foot vaccination center at a local shopping mall that could administer 200 doses an hour. The vaccination program built on the successful COVID-19 testing effort that Cayuga Health and the health department launched in March 2020, just days after the community recorded its first coronavirus infection. That joint effort expanded to three testing sites in Tompkins County, and more than one million COVID-19 tests for county residents were completed in its first year of operation.
